Notes:

This chart uses the formula: percentage of success = (skill - (trivial x 0.75) + 51.5. This is only one of many possible success formulas, but seems to be the most widely accepted.

A geerlok gives 5% bonus to base skill, so the geerlok equation will work for other 5% tradeskill items.

Actual success rates will vary slightly depending on the random number generator (RNG). These only represent statistical probability.

Since there is always a 5% chance of failure, the highest percentage success rate you can achieve is 95%, represented by MAX in this chart.

This chart only goes to 249 because there are no items known to trivial at 250 exactly. Items rated >250 have trivial levels somewhere above 250, but as yet these trivial items are not known. The chart as written will give you some idea of when you may safely start making grandmaster level items.
